POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The American people are on the warpath, determined to get action "or else"—and the days of a rubber-stamp Congress, blindly taking program from the White House and Washington departments, are definitely numbered!

That seems to be the major lesson to be learned from last week's startling election upsets, which virtually stripped President Roosevelt of control of both houses of Congress.

The new Congress, which convenes in January, will still have a Democratic majority—at least on paper—but actually, a coalition of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats will be able to effect a working majority on any controversial issue.

Washington is still rocking from the shock of Democratic defeats and Republican victories, but in the final showdown, the rebellion of the electorate.. will undoubtedly prove a healthy thing for the nation.

President Roosevelt, who has always had a Congress too-quick-to-serve, too ready to carry out his slightest suggestion, will benefit as much as the country at large, if he has the good sense to recognize that this is democracy at work—and that no man, in war-time, can or should speak for all America.

electorate will undoubtedly Roosevelt for a third term, the greatest honor ever conferred on any American President. But they also elected a Congress, which they expected to act as a check-and-balance on the President. When it failed to do so, they rebelled—and elected a Congress which is almost certain to end the rubber-stamp era in Washington.

The people elected Mr. frankly concerned, Mr. President, over the conduct of the war. They want a more vigorous prosecution of the war. They want a unified command. They want simplified war agencies. They want a balanced program covering rationing, inflation and manpower. They want New Deal politicians to stop talking about the people being soft, and unwilling to make the necessary sacrifices, for that is absolute bunk! The people only want intelligent direction; they want—and deserve—an end to the confusion of orders and decrees in Washington; they just want to be told what is expected of them with some assurance that the order won't be countermanded the next day!

Another thing the people want, Mr. President, is an end to the attempts to accomplish a social revolution in this country while we are engaged in fighting a war for survival. They don't believe that your "brain-trusters" should take advantage of the fact that we are in a fight to the death and attempt to slip over a social revolution on us while we are in that battle.

The people of America have only one fight now—and that fight is against our enemies; they will make any sacrifices to win that fight, but they don't want an internal fight now that will divide the country. That's the reason for the revolt, Mr. President. You might make note of it!

Clubmen Hear Ed Garcia of Permanente

Ed Garcia, safety engineer at Permanente, explained the manufacture of magnesia and the safety requirements necessary in its production at Tuesday's meeting of the Kiwanis club. His talk was most instructive and elicited many queries on the part of his listeners.

Ross Trowbridge was program chairman.

Guests on this occasion were George Arlidge, manager of the Campbell theater; Dr. Ed Kilbourne of Los Gatos, and Bert Knapp of Mountain View.

Next week the Rev. Stanley Clapham of Los Gatos, who served with the merchant marine for many years, will explain that branch of service, and will be presented by Lowell Benson, who expects his call soon for that branch of our national defense in which he enlisted recently.

Last Rites At Rutherford's For Roy Wood

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Rutherford funeral home for Roy Wood, who committed suicide Friday by firing a shotgun charge into his heart.

Seated on a woodpile, said Deputy Coroner Harry Rider, Wood leaned over the muzzle of the gun and pulled the trigger with a stick.

Wood, who was 57 years of age, was a ranch worker and former miner. He contracted an illness while working as a miner and had been in failing health and had become despondent. The family resides at 570 Rincon avenue.

Surviving members of his family are his widow, Sarah Wood, two sons and three daughters.

The Rev. J. H. Bennett conducted the services, with David Rutherford soloist and Mrs. Rutherford organist.

Interment was in Santa Clara city cemetery.

"Then there is Steve Merrill, a vocalist who really gives out with "White Christmas" and "Always In My Heart." He is the best vocalist any band has brought to Boston for the past two years."

Bulmore Meat Market Closes

The many business and personal friends of Al Bulmore learned with regret that he has closed his meat market, as the present meat shortage made it unprofitable to continue.

Mr. Bulmore has been in the meat business for over 40 years, many of which were spent in Campbell, with an interval of a few years in San Jose. Some 14 years ago he returned to conduct the business in the Cutting building where he continued to serve his patrons until Wednesday.

He plans on a real rest for two or three weeks, and then has several propositions under consideration.

D. J. Decker, who conducts the grocery and vegetable store in the same building is taking over the ice box for vegetable storage.

Said Al in closing up shop, "Due to the limitation on meat to retailers I find it necessary to discontinue the operation of my meat market, and I take this opportunity to thank my many patrons who for the past many years have been so loyal to me; and may I wish you all the best of luck?"

By Jane Tompkins

It may seem like a far cry from raccoons, beavers, snowshoe rabbits, polar bears, musk-oxen, and penguins (which is what I have been writing about during the past few years) to the subject of War Bonds and Stamps; but, when you stop to think about it, the two are kindred. For just as raccoons and other creatures of the wild yearn for freedom and security, so do human beings feel that life without freedom and security is an unhappy existence.

The price of freedom is high, but no price is too high. That is why we are now engaged in a war that must end in Victory. It is a people's war. That means you, and me, and all those near and dear to us. It means the children in school, the teacher, the grocer on Main Street, the boy who lives around the corner. For there is some way in which every single one of us — men, women, and children — can help to win. Each of us can do his share. And one way of sharing the burden is this: Buy War Stamps. Buy War Bonds. Keep on buying them, even if it means sacrifice. For only by the sacrifice on the part of all Americans can we hope to win the Victory that will keep us free from oppression, and will free those who are now enslaved. So, don't forget, Buy Stamps, Buy Bonds. Do your share on the home front while our men are doing their share on land and sea and in the air!

Keep America Free—Keep America Strong—Let's all Pull Together for Victory!

LEATHERNECKS' BIRTHDAY

This week the nation celebrated the 167th anniversary of the formation of the Marines, the oldest branch of the nation's armed forces.

During the War of Independence, the newly formed Continental Marines, as they were then called, received their baptism of fire in a landing operation on the Bahamas. Historians have termed that action probably the most successful naval operation of the Revolutionary War.

Today that judgment occasions no surprise. Since Pearl Harbor the Leathernecks have written some of the most stirring chapters of heroism to come out of this war. At Wake Island and in the Battle of the Solomons they have shown themselves worthy inheritors of the Marines who fought so gallantly under John Paul Jones, "the father of the American Navy." Though terribly outnumbered, Wake Island's valiant fighters dealt punishing blows against the Japanese while supplies and ammunition lasted. In the Solomons, unleashing their heaviest landing forces in history, it was the Marines who wrested control of Guadalcanal from the Japanese and perhaps turned the tides of warfare in the Pacific.

Teamwork has been the talisman of the Marines' success since the days of '76, the talisman that points the way to victory for all America's armed forces, points the way to victory for all the United Nations.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"The Man Miss Susie Loved" by Augusta Tucker.

The greatest introduction that a new book has, I believe, is to mention that it is "another" book by the author of a book that made the best seller list at some previous date. The book that we are reviewing this week is, in every respect, and in many respects, equal to and surpasses the author's first novel which slipped to the top of the list of selected reading in 1939, "Mis Susie Slagel's". The new publication, while in no sense dependent for its interest upon the first book brings to memory and re-introduces several characters who made the earlier book memorable.

To establish the date for the beginning of this book, we mention the period immediately following the close of the Civil War. Miss Susie is young, only sixteen. It is in the Slagle home in Baltimore that Major Beverly is welcomed as an "old soldier" who was a survivor of Stonewall Jackson's brave command. The Major had known Mr. Slagle's brother who lost his life in the war, thus his entrance into the Slagle home. But the big surprise to Miss Susie and to her father also is that the Major is not old, but young and eager for life as Miss Susie is herself. One of the sweetest love stories that I have had the pleasure of reading in a long time, develops from this meeting of the Major and Miss Susie.

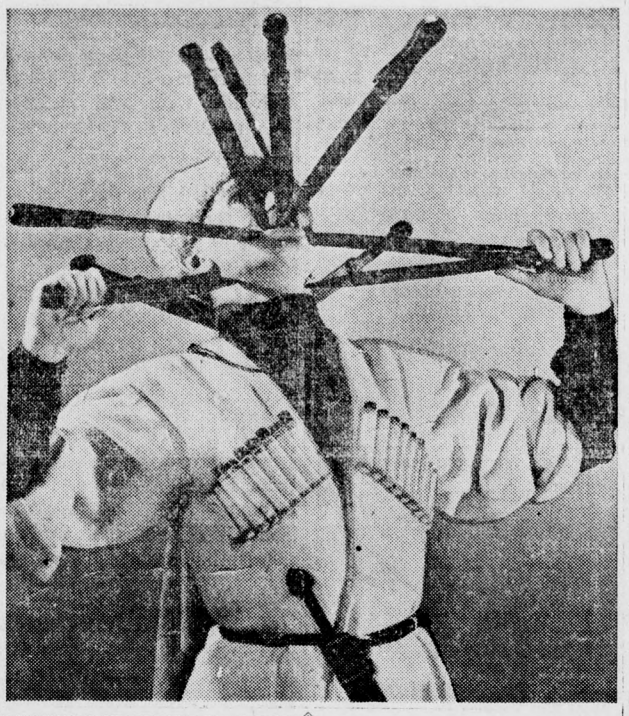
We witness gallantry in a loving heart, we learn, in detail, about the building and establishing of Johns Hopkins hospital. It was through the friendship which grew between Susie and the Major that Johns Hopkins became a friend of Miss Susie's and she in turn a friend to him.

This book is not without tragedy, but like life, tragedy is a running mate with happiness, and tragedy runs far behind. There are personages, such as Johns Hopkins, Mr. Peabody, Miss Susie's mother and a few others that you will not soon forget.

This novel is one that you can cry over and enjoy crying. You can laugh, too.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vian, a daughter, Lucretia Joy, Nov. 4 at O'Connor sanitarium.

COSSACK KNIFE DANCER



Scouts to Post Xmas Seal Signs

The Boy Scouts of Santa Clara county are starting out next week on another of their community jobs. This time they are putting up the posters for the annual Christmas seal sale campaign which opens Nov. 23 and extends through Christmas day.

"This time we are out to save lives," said O. B. Mathews, county scout executive. "This job is not new; we do it every year. We are glad to have a share in the work of an organization which is making every effort to combat a disease which is the chief cause of death in young people."

Funds derived from the sale of Christmas seals are the sole support of the Santa Clara County Tuberculosis association in its campaign of x-raying chests of working adults throughout the county. Since war always brings an increase in this disease, funds are urgently needed this year more than ever before to enable the association to x-ray chests of war workers.

Martin S. Walsh, local attorney, is chairman of Campbell's Christmas seal sale.

MRS. EDNA REED

Mrs. Edna Maude Gilkey Reed, mother of Mrs. Ethelyn Hansey of Campbell, passed away in San Jose Tuesday. Among the other children are Lieut. Mansel J. and Pfc. Vernon C. Reed of Bataan, P. I.

The General Platoff Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus will make the third brilliant event of the San Jose Concert series, appearing on next Tuesday evening, Nov. 17, at 8:15 in the civic auditorium.

Twenty - seven perfectly matched voices, ranging from high tenor to lowest bass, are directed by Nicholas Kostrukoff, as a great organ. The Platoff Don Cossacks are not to be confused with the Jaroffs who sang in San Jose last year.

"The Platoff Choir cannot be likened to any similar organization. . .for the reason that the men excel as vocalists capable of producing the most stunning massed tones, either when roaring forth in booming sonority or when uttering whispered phrases of heavenly beauty" praised the Chicago American. In this time, when their native Russia is battling for her liberties, these exiled Russians are singing with a thrilling grandeur that is moving to hear.

A feature of the program is the dancing. One knife dancer does a traditional Russian routine with knives balanced on his chin, lips, shoulders, mouth, and hands. This art, known to few, is handed down from father to son in the Caucasus.

Tickets for the Don Cossacks are on sale at the auditorium box office. Col. 7087.

PURCHASE COWS

Laughing Around the World
With IRVIN S. COBB

The Value of a Good Memory

By IRVIN S. COBB

WHEN Rhinelander Waldo was fire commissioner of New York and when Edward Croker, was fire chief, Croker volunteered one day to take Waldo for a ride down Broadway in his famous ninety-horsepower red automobile, which he used when going to fires. Waldo's secretary, "Winnie" Sheehan, who's now a movie magnate, went along, too.

Waldo owned a number of brisk-moving cars himself and thought he knew something about speed, but he had never traveled with Croker. They sped down Broadway at a terrifying pace, shaving trolley cars, slicing curbstones and avoiding collisions with trucks by quarter inch margins.

At Canal Street a block compelled Croker to slow down. Instantly Waldo jumped out of the car and, muttering something about having forgotten something, dived into the nearest building. About then, Croker decided to call up fire headquarters and he, too, went away temporarily, leaving his dare-devil chauffeur and the yet breathless Sheehan in the machine. Croker returned to find only the chauffeur.

"Mr. Sheehan said for you to go ahead and have your ride out," stated the chauffeur. "He said he'd just remembered the same thing that Mr. Waldo did."

The Unexploded Bomb

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tonight, tomorrow or any time in the near future this city and your home may be bombed. When enemy planes come over, you may expect to hear the crash of high explosive bombs and see fires started by incendiaries.

But do you know that after the enemy planes have been shot down or have flown away, the raid may go on, and on, for hours or even days? The bomb dropped today or tonight may not explode until next week. These are unexploded bombs, the UXB's, perhaps the most devastating and dangerous of all weapons of warfare.

We present here the first of a series of articles, authorized by the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense for the Ninth Civilian Defense Region, to acquaint you with the UXB and your responsibility in helping to protect yourself, your family and your city.

Most of the bombs which whistle down on this town when enemy planes fly overhead will explode with the accompanying destruction for which they were designed.

But some of them will crash through buildings, paved streets and factories or bury themselves deep in the earth. These are known as unexploded bombs, or UXB's, to the military and civilian defense officials who have to deal with them.

UXB's are divided into two types, time bombs which are set to explode hours or days after plowing their way into the ground, or bombs in which the detonating device has at least momentarily failed to work.

Sometimes these unexploded bombs are cleverly placed by the enemy where they are calculated to do the most damage possible. One may be dropped in a railroad switch yard or in the midst of a factory which is working around the clock on war production.

It would be bad enough if the bomb actually exploded on impact. It's worse when it doesn't, because activity in the immediate area of the UXB must cease until the bomb has been rendered harmless and removed. Other UXB's may land in residential districts, which likewise must be evacuated until the bomb is removed. This disruption of civil life and national production facilities makes the UXB the most dangerous and devasting of war weapons.

No one knows or can tell when the unexploded bomb will go off. And until it has either exploded or been removed the air raid is, in effect, still on. Unexploded bombs planted throughout the city are just as dangerous to you and your family, to our production for war as if squadrons of enemy planes still flew overhead.

The Western Defense Command and Fourth Army, the Ninth Regional U. S. Office of Civilian Defense and your Civilian Defense council have developed a simple reporting and operating system on the West Coast to defend you against these death dealing instruments of war.

In this system you, too, have a function, and a very vital one. In subsequent articles on the UXB we will tell you about this system of rendering inactive the enemy's most dangerous weapon and where your responsibility lies in this method of defense.

Record War Bond Sales Is Goal Of Women At War Week Nov. 22

WASHINGTON, D. C.—America's women in the cities and on the farms—in war factories and in their homes—are determined to make Women At War Week the greatest War Bond selling effort since Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sounded the keynote for the Treasury Department's Women At War Week, Nov. 22 to 28, with an appeal to women to save on "little things" to provide money for War Bonds.

During Women At War Week volunteer War Bond saleswomen will wear an armband similar to the one being attached to the sleeve of Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., by Miss Harriet Elliott.

"We women want to work hard, we want to be a part of this strenuous period because unless we are, we will not be able to face the men when they return and claim our share of the future responsibility for building a peaceful world," the First Lady declared.

The overall direction of Women At War Week rests with the Women's Section of the War Savings Staff under the leadership of Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Field Director, and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Chief of the Special Activities Unit.

From coast to coast women in every community have made plans for torchlight parades, fashion shows, teas, rallies, store window displays, Stamp and Bond booths, pageants, civic sings, balls and mardi gras. In each locality administration of the one week drive rests with the local War Savings Committee which has worked out activities adapted to their areas.

Mrs. Morgenthau, in a special message for Women At War Week, declared that the spirit of America's pioneer women lives today more strongly than ever.

"The average American woman began to rise to new heights on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941," Mrs. Morgenthau said. "This winter the average American woman will be spending less in order to save more to invest in War Bonds and Stamps. She will not, please God, ever have to fire a gun or fly a bomber. But she will, please God, always do everything she can to help buy anything—and the best of everything—that fires or flies or floats in this terrible war."

WOMEN AT WAR—Overalls, wrenches and drills replace fineries as these war workers in an Army Arsenal march to tank repair shops. Note the determination on their faces. These women are typical of hundreds of thousands who are working in war factories and investing part of their earnings in War Bonds.
